ABOUT US

Explore over 1100 years of history

Dating back to around 886AD, The Royal Mint is one of the oldest manufacturers in the World. Our coins identify our original home as The Tower of London before relocation to Tower Hill.

In 1968 The Royal Mint began to move its operations from Tower Hill in the City of London to Llantrisant, and has operated on a single site in South Wales since 1980.

With some of the most talented coin designers and craftsmanship in the world, we pride ourselves on creating beautiful and unique coins. Did you know we also produced around 4,700 gold, silver and bronze medals for the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games?

Start with our award winning guided tour which takes you behind the scenes of The Royal Mint.

Hear all about how we have been able to adapt and re-invent ourselves, From supporting the country during times of crises to making visors during covid, plus whilst we are now and always will be the producer of UK circulating coins we will now be the first site in Europe to start extracting gold from old electronic waste such as laptops and ram cards.

You'll learn lots more about our new ventures as we progress through this brand new tour, looking at the future of The Royal Mint.

Don't forget to explore our exhibition, housing artifacts and items with unrivalled importance spanning from ancient times to modern day.
